Dear colleagues and friends,

Time is running and in a few months the next annual meeting of the Austrian Society for Tropical Medicine, Parasitology and Migration Medicine is approaching fast. The motto of our conference will be “IT goes tropics” to emphasize the important role of modern media and methods in our field.

This year our meeting, which is scheduled from November 16th to 18th, 2017, will be in Linz, the capital of Upper Austria. We were able to inspire Dr. Fritz Gusenleitner, head of the Department for Natural Sciences/Entomology Collections at the Center for Biology in Linz to host our conference in this wonderful town. The meeting will be held at the “Schloss Linz” which is a really breath-taking location. A special event (“Deep Space” with Prof. Fellner from Linz) on Thursday evening at the “Ars electronica” center in Linz will allow you to get insights into our organism you never were able to have before – really extraordinary!

Again we were able to invite several distinguished speakers from various fields, among them Martin Grobusch from Antwerpen, who is one of the leading scientists in the field of resistant tuberculosis and malaria, Christoph Hatz, head of the Tropical Institute in Basel, Marc Muscat from WHO regional bureau Europe and many others. Additionally, the meeting will be framed by a press conference on Thursday and a podium discussion on Friday after our general assembly dealing with the challenges of migration and tourism with respect to outbreaks of infectious diseases. These events are organized together with the ORF and are dedicated to open our society to the public.

The scientific program will cover a diversity of topics, including parasitology, tropical medicine, microbiology and travel medicine and will give opportunity to researchers to present their last scientific results. The meeting is open for submission of presentations in any aspect of tropical medicine, parasitology and migration medicine. And we particularly encourage young researchers and scientists to submit their work: Again a poster prize and a junior award for the best presentation will be sponsored.

As in the preceding years submissions may be either presented as oral presentations or in a chaired poster session giving authors the opportunity to present their work.

On this occasion I would like to thank our sponsors, who are again supporting our meeting and without their funding this meeting would not be possible.

Looking forward to seeing you in Linz for an exciting meeting

Best regards

Herwig Kollaritsch

(president of ÖGTPM)
